Lasallian socio-educational organisations in Spain empower young people to lead ecological transformation

The EARTH (Every Action Restores The Harmony) project, in which La Salle's socio-educational organisations in Spain are participating – serving Lasallian centres in Andalusia and Melilla – has reached a new key milestone with the official launch of the DriveED LMS platform.

This international initiative has moved from the design phase to making the capacity-building programme directly accessible to youth organisations.

Through the DriveED LMS platform, organisations and those working directly with young people will be able to:

- Assess their organisational capacity and identify any shortcomings.
- Access modular training content tailored to real needs, such as climate literacy and regulatory frameworks.
- Apply practical tools for project design, communication, fundraising and youth engagement.

Ongoing learning
In keeping with its philosophy, EARTH proposes a cycle of ongoing learning based on four steps: self-assessment, learning, application and improvement.

Through this system, organisations play an active role in ensuring that learning is integrated into their day-to-day practice.

In this way, the Lasallian socio-educational initiatives in Andalusia and Melilla (Spain) reaffirm their commitment to educational innovation, sustainable development and the empowerment of young people.

* Article published by the Arlep District (La Salle in Spain and Portugal).